Writing Lab

Technology Resources

NJSLA Saturday Portfolio Bootcamp

NEWSELA

Literature Connections

Paraprofessionals in Algebra I and ELA 10

Writing Lab

Located next to Library

Scheduled during each lunch period

Students can bring their lunch to the lab

Students who need extra help with their writing can walk in or schedule an appointment

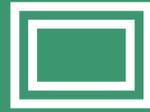

Work with student tutors who are trained by our ELA and Social Studies teachers

Students can work with tutors every day if they wish

NJSLA Saturday Portfolio Bootcamp

Offered on Saturdays from January through March

Seniors who have not met any testing requirement for graduation are mandated to attend as this is their last chance to meet the requirement and graduate high school

Taught by our ELA and Math teachers in small groups for individualized attention

NEWSELA

Web based program for ELA

Non-fiction/Information texts taken from the Associated Press and other news outlets

Articles are modified for four different reading levels so teachers can assign the same article but differentiate and assign appropriate reading levels to their students

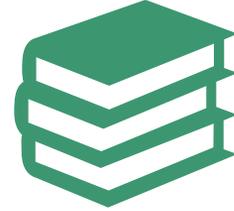

Monitors reading progress through quizzes

Students can progress to the highest reading level(actual print publication)

Literature Connections

Course embedded in students schedule

Taught by a certified reading specialist

Class is designed as a supplement to their regular ELA class and helps them prepare for the NJSLA as well as for their regular ELA coursework

Paraprofessionals

One paraprofessional in both ELA and Math

Paraprofessionals are placed in our ELA 10 and ALG 1 classes to assist classroom teachers in implementing NJSLA preparation and skills

Work with small groups of students who need the attention and extra help.

Technology Resources

Laptop carts are housed and labeled in Title I classrooms for ELA, Math and some Social Studies and Science classrooms

Laptops are available for daily rental in the Library.
